

Avonlea
CHRISTCHURCH

Our Home

Warmest greetings from Fitz, Sandeep and the Avonlea team!

As we approach the summer season and the Christmas holidays, we want to take this opportunity to reflect on the past year and share some exciting news with our residents and their families.

I am Fitz Barluado. I am the new operations manager and I am excited to have joined the Avonlea team. I am delighted by fellow staff and their passion to care for people and I am enjoying the mixture of cultures amongst the staff here at Avonlea. I like that we come from different cultures but we can all speak the same language. I have been enjoying getting to know residents and their families. If we haven't met properly, please do feel welcome to approach me and to introduce yourself when you see me around.

We have recently welcomed 3 new registered nurses to Avonlea. Their names are Priyanka, Delna and Durga. We are enjoying having them on our team.

Simon Hamley, our Training Coordinator, as well as other clinical and non-clinical team members, continue to provide continuous training to our staff. This ensures that our team members are always up-to-date on the latest skills and competencies, so that they can provide our residents with the highest quality of care.

Following up from the construction work we completed last year, we have been doing some tidy up work in our Lincoln Road car park and adding some signage at the Lincoln Road and Taramea Place entrances. We know both of these issues have been a bugbear for families so thanks very much for your input in getting them fixed.

We wish to thank all the EPOAs who have taken part in our recent survey. It is heartening to see some of the positive comments which came through. The survey is hugely helpful to us in identifying our gaps or areas that we can improve on. A reminder that any specific concerns which may arise from day to day should be addressed with us directly as soon as possible.

Over the past few months we have enjoyed many activities at Avonlea, from van outings to the harvesting of our organic produce from our veggie garden over at Pyaar. Our residents have truly enjoyed spending time outdoors.

In keeping with the changing seasons, our menu, compiled by our dietitian, has been updated from winter to summer. Our residents can now enjoy a variety of fresh and seasonal fruits and vegetables, as well as lighter dishes that are perfect for warm weather.

We are so grateful for the trust and support of our residents, families, and staff. The work we do at Avonlea is a pleasure and a privilege, and we are grateful for the opportunity to make a difference in the lives of our residents.

We wish you all a happy holiday season!

We warmly invite you to join us at our Christmas Gatherings

OFA and RUDO
Tuesday the 12th of December,
2.30-3.30pm

PYAAR and AROHA
Wednesday the 13th of December,
2.30-3.30pm

HOA and AWHI WHANAU
Thursday the 14th of December,
2.30-3.30pm

MAHAL
Friday the 15th of December,
2.30-3.30pm

Happy Christmas from Andrew Sheard

Christmas is an exciting time with the opportunity to catch up with friends and whānau and to reflect on the many ups and downs a year brings. For me it is an opportunity to enjoy some family time and perhaps to catch up on some long-forgotten jobs around the house over the summer.

As I travel around our homes I really enjoy the special moments that come at Christmas time. A chance to catch up with some old friends, share a meal and some Christmas cake, or just to enjoy each other's company. These moments mean so much and really light up the faces of residents, staff and family members.

Please remember you are always welcome to come and make yourself a cup of tea or coffee at our homes and to join your loved one for a meal.

Christmas can also be a tough time of year for people who are away from their families or perhaps are missing family or friends that may have passed away. I am always mindful of many of our staff from overseas who are often away from their family for significant periods of time. This can be very challenging. I'm sure many of you will be missing a family member that you would love to spend Christmas with.

When I reflect on the past year, I notice that we have achieved many positive outcomes. We now have electronic records systems well embedded in our organisation, we have done significant work on our Māori and Pacific health plans, and we continue to innovate in the ways we care for people with dementia.

We are also starting to return to normal in terms of the number of Registered Nurses at our homes and we have been fortunate to recruit some very capable managers over the past six months or so.

It fills me with a sense of great pleasure to think about how our staff teams have managed some very challenging times over the past year or two with the global Registered Nurse shortage impacting our homes. Our staff family have responded so well, supporting each other and continuing to deliver the loving care they are so good at.

We have recently completed EPOA surveys. This is such a valuable source of feedback for us as it allows us to improve our service and plan for future improvements. Thank you so much for your input.

I wish you all the best for the holiday season and we very much look forward to seeing many of you at our Christmas gatherings over the next few weeks.

Ngā mihi nui

Andrew Sheard, Managing Director

Magic Moments from our Homes around NZ

I have returned back to work from my parental leave recently. All the residents are excited to see me back. There is one resident who comes inside my office every day, goes behind my chair to have a look around and asks me, 'did you bring him today?' I asked him who he is looking for and he said... 'your baby boy ... I was checking if you are hiding him behind your chair.' When I took my baby to see him he was so excited to see him and said, 'oh you are finally here!' I was so touched by the glow in his eyes.

I was busy assisting a resident and one of our other residents suddenly approached me, gave me a hug and said, 'thank you and I love you.'

Our entertainers were playing and a staff member took a resident up to dance. He enjoyed this so much that he stood appreciating the music until the entertainers had finished.

During a kapa haka performance by school students, a resident stood up from her chair in the middle of the vibrant singing and paid full attention to the dance. She didn't sit down until after the performance. This resident keeps to herself always and it was lovely to see that she reacted so enthusiastically to the kapa haka.

“Unity is strength. . . when there is teamwork and collaboration, wonderful things can be achieved.” - Mattie Stepanek

It has been a challenging time since 2020 due to the nationwide nursing shortage in New Zealand. This has been impacted and compounded by international health workforce shortages, the effect of COVID-19 on retention rates, and immigration challenges. We have been reliant on internationally trained nurses to fill the workforce gaps which developed over years of increasing nurse retention issues in New Zealand. Like so many of our partners in the health system, we continue to manage our workforce shortages in this way. These internationally qualified nurses are working with us as level 4 senior caregivers and are in a registered nurse (RN) support role. Working in an RN support role, they have shown excellent initiative.

With support and oversight from our senior clinical team, our level 4 RN support staff have made sure residents and the quality of their care are always at the centre of our decision making. On behalf of the entire team of Dementia Care NZ we would like to express that we appreciate and admire their phenomenal efforts in the workplace. We are impressed at how well they have managed their work and all the hours they have put into the job. Their professionalism has motivated the entire team. Thank you so much!

Although workforce shortages continue to be an issue, we have been fortunate to continue to recruit new registered nurses, some of whom started as level 4 caregiver/RN support staff and then went on to complete their pathway to New Zealand nursing registration and have since become registered nurses. They are working as RNs across all our DCNZ facilities. In addition, we have recruited new registered nurses who applied through advertisements on various platforms. We would like to extend a warm welcome to our new RNs into the DCNZ team. They bring a wealth of knowledge and experience to DCNZ homes and it is great to have them join us.

With Christmas just around the corner, we are thankful that we can enjoy catching up with family and friends. We are looking forward to celebrating Christmas by enjoying food, gifts and each other's company. We are both happy to be joining the homes for their Christmas Gatherings and celebrations alongside residents and staff.

We wish all our Dementia Care NZ families a safe and happy Christmas and every good wish for the New Year. We look forward to catching up again in 2024.

Urmee Rahman and Arrah Bagtang, Regional Clinical Managers

The importance of our ‘Best Friends Approach to Dementia Care’ training

With Christmas approaching I am drawn to thinking about the things that are important to us; our traditions, customs and values. Some time ago, before I joined Dementia Care NZ, our Visions and Values were developed. These are a guide for how we should conduct ourselves and treat others. You may have seen this on a poster at one of our facilities. Our Vision and Values is the foundation for all that we do, and we introduce these to all of our new staff at an informal session facilitated by Andrew, one of our directors. Once this foundation is in place, we can then help to build on it, knowing that the foundation is steady and secure.

I am very fortunate to be someone who helps to pass on these values when I meet with staff and facilitate some training called ‘The Best Friends Approach to Dementia Care’. This training is undertaken by all of our staff, organisation wide. Over three sessions we explore and discuss many different ideas. The starting point is ‘What qualities does a best friend have?’ Inevitably we discover that a best friend is non-judgmental, compassionate, trustworthy and kind. We can then discuss how we can bring those qualities with us to work and treat the residents we care for (and our colleagues too), as if they were our best friends. A win-win situation for all concerned.

Another key purpose of the Best Friends training is to encourage our staff to develop empathy for someone living with dementia. What is it really like? How must it feel to wake up and not quite know where you are? Why do some residents not want to take a shower? Why do some seek a way out of the facility? These things can be easily explained and understood if you can put yourself in the resident's shoes. This is true empathy, and once developed it is the greatest thing. It is like discovering gold.

Speaking of gold, I hope that you are able to enjoy the Christmas season.

Simon Hamley, Education Co-ordinator

Cultural care in our homes

Over the past year or so we have been doing a lot of work on how we deliver cultural care in our homes. We have been working with a cultural advisor on the questions we ask when a new resident moves into one of our homes, while bearing in mind that this may be a lot to share when you're just moving in. We are also making sure our team has the skills to meet those needs.

Finding out about what makes each person unique and special is at the very core of the work we do. Our Vision and Values focus on how we interact with each person: understanding their values, interests and hobbies, and getting to know their whānau.

When we do our Vision and Values training for each new staff member, we share our own culture, values and family connections as this is another key part of creating trusting relationships.

This is an excerpt from our Vision and Values:

Kia tomo mai ki te tautoko nei i tō whānau.

Kia whakatuarā mātou i te kotahitanga me ngā uara hoki o te mana o ia tangata.

Kia whakanui hoki mātau i te kotahitanga ahakoa ngā rerekētanga.

We welcome family/whānau and the wider community as integral to people's lives.

We promote inclusion and the rights and values of each person.

We celebrate unity in diversity.

Our Best Friends training builds on this work. Simon talks about our Best Friends training in this newsletter – if we can treat everyone as if they are a best friend, we will all experience positive interactions, filled with love and compassion.

As we move forward we are building on these foundations.

Over the course of this year we have been working to ensure everyone in our organisation completes Treaty of Waitangi training. We are also gaining cultural input when we plan projects we are working on over the next year. The question we are asking is: what are the things we need to work on to make our homes even more welcoming and inclusive?

Over the next year we will be focusing on continuing to improve the ability to understand and be with people of differing cultures, building closer connections to community organisations around our homes and some te reo training for staff.

One of the things that always comes up as we discuss cultural care is involving whānau in the care of their loved ones. Family members coming in to share the interests of our residents creates such magic moments for our residents. We really encourage you to continue to share interests with your loved ones where you are able and to share stories with us so that we might be able to better understand your loved one. Thank you for your visits, thank you for sharing with us. You are so important to us.

Peter Hume

Communications, Engagement and Governance Advisor

Cup Day at Avonlea

We got dressed up in our finery and fancy hats. We had a wonderful time, sharing food, dancing and enjoying the fresh air.

